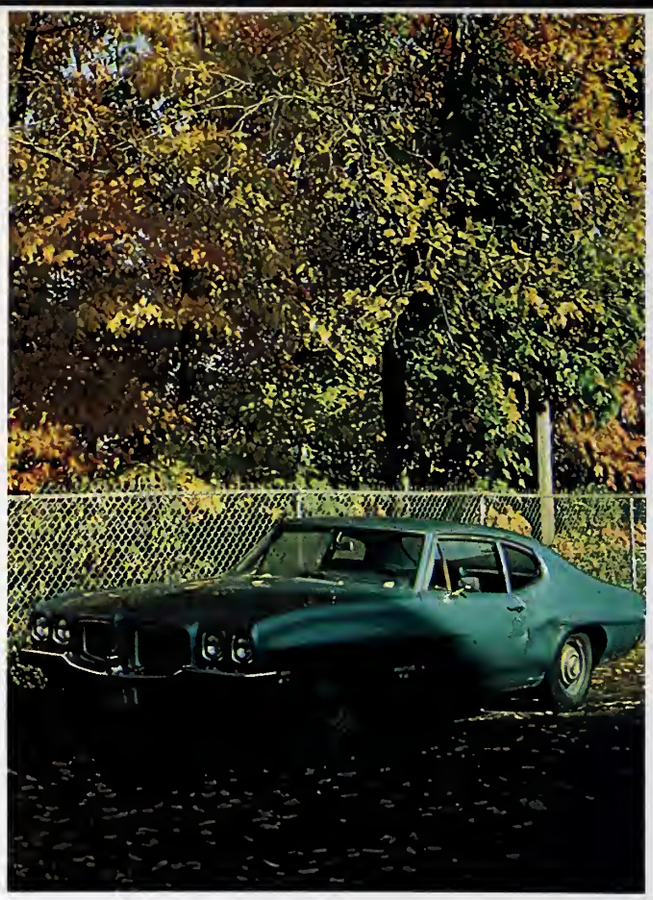
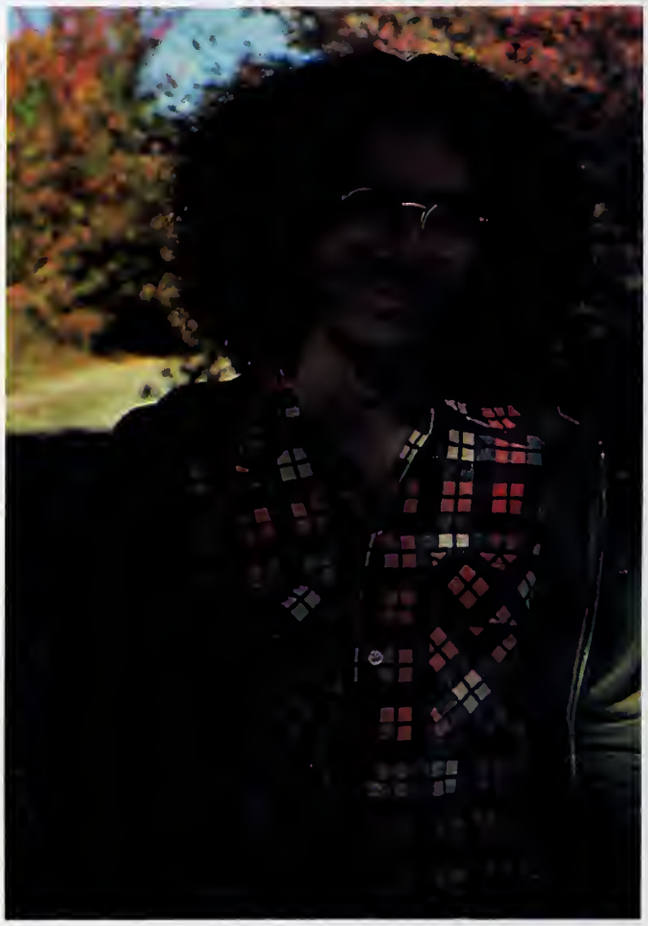
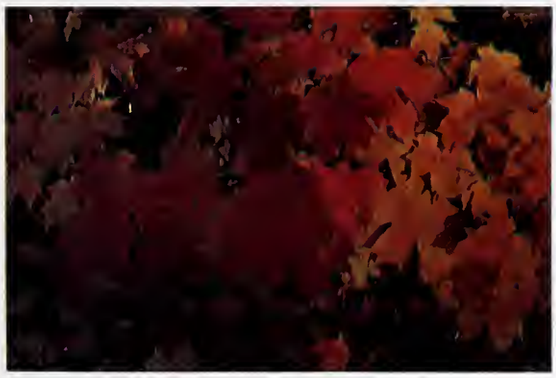
What is Time? The shadow on the dial, the striking on the clock, the running of the sand, day and night, summer and winter? These are but arbitrary and outward signs; the measure of time, not time itself. Time is the life of the soul.

Longfellow

Wake up Autumn pup –
Where is your old glowing energy?







Leaves fall down now
brown and beautiful
  brittle to the touch,
lying on the ground or filling public fountains,
whirling down the streets,
catching in the gutters
and diverting little streams of water.
Brown October leaves, trampled underfoot, banged about by brooms that sweep the gutters clean.

At times I feel
there'll be no other summer anymore.
That time of reason will not come again.
And so I have my green days filed away
To call back when the snows come down.

They say actions speak der than words. That is so ical of Bill Benson, a junior ning back at Framingham te College (FSC).

Benson recently rushed for yards in a 17 to 7 win over University of New Haven ut him over the 1,000 yard teau in his college career. is the first player in F.S.C. tory to do so.

Right now, Benson is ding the New England otball Conference (NEFC)

The medium built running back didn't expect to gain 1,000 yards, but enjoys playing - football, finding it exciting, and he likes the kids he plays with.

Benson has played football since he was nine. He joined Pop Warner in 1964, continuing throughout junior high and Norwood High School.

The shy running back credits his father for having the most influence on his playing football. "He went to impress Coach Dennis Golden. One is the silent leadership he commands on the team. "He doesn't say much during practice or a game," Golden said, "but he goes and does his job."

Second, Coach Golden likes his intelligent reactions which accent his versatility. "Benson can run, block, and catch pass receptions," Golden said, "making him one of the best running backs in the NEFC."

Benson doesn't have to brag about the things he does, other people do that for him.

Virginity is a pushed-around, out of style, stepped-on term. In this age of sophisticated birth control and detailed sex manuals, a girl has no reason to remain a virgin. Liberated from her fear of becoming pregnant she should be happy that she can indulge with the same amount of gusto as her male partner. After all, every sex book published will advise her that she will enjoy the act of intercourse. With time and practice, she will become sensuous, desirable, sought-after. What more could a girl want?

The question of virginity has long been a dilemma for young women. Brought up to believe that "good girls" don't, the conflict can grow to be quite painful during her late teens and early twenties. The advertising market is glutted with ads promoting sex appeal. Every novel written is filled with scenes of torrid passion, all of which seem perfectly natural. So if this is the case, why does Mom say "no"?

Starting with her first high school boyfriend, young Joyce encounters the problem. Wrestling with Jimmy in the beach parking lot, a voice clicks in her brain and she starts to stop him and pull away. Jimmy becomes frustrated and angry and Joyce becomes sullen and upset. Jimmy should understand that good girls shouldn't. Joyce should understand that she is only teasing by just bringing him so far. The relationship starts to deteriorate and Joyce begins to wonder: Maybe she should?

When this thought enters Joyce's mind she is attacked by another barrage of conflicting questions. Will Jimmy tell his friends? Will she lose her reputation? Will she get pregnant? And, why does Mom continue to insist that it is wrong? The thoughts squelch her desire to please Jimmy and suddenly, she is faced with a constant series of weekend fights. What's a girl to do?

So Joyce graduates and goes away to college. She chooses a quiet surburban campus just like Framingham State. To promote her independence she breaks up with Jimmy; somewhat relieved to rid herself of their constant bickering. College men are more mature, right? No more silly problems, right? Poor Joyce! She does not know what is coming.

College is a slight bit different from high school. Beer parties and dorm parties become the place to meet the men, so Joyce starts to have a few beers to loosen up. Then one Saturday night she is "picked up" by Jackie, a football jock. Joyce is proud of herself, a little tipsy, and all set to accompany Jackie back to his room. Innocently enough, Joyce trips inside the room, silently wondering why he does not turn the lights on. He turns to her murmuring "Oh baby, you're so nice . . . " He begins to kiss her, nicely at first. Joyce relaxes and bango! Jackie is pulling the same moves that Jimmy did. And, Joycie doesn't even know this jerky jock. The same voice clicks and Joyce pulls away. A scene follows. He says that she is a tease and she starts to cry. So much for the football hero. Joycie is wising up fast. College men are just older, not more mature.

The years pass, with the same scene popping up now and again. Joycie gets to know all the lines and, wise to them, remains aloof. She's still wondering if she should or not but the guys she has run into are crude and she stays turned off. Her friends are dropping their defenses one by one. It seems that they are falling in love and, well, sex is all part of love, right? Now, Joycie is even more confused. If she is in love, should she? But, then she wouldn't be a virgin when she got married. Would that be wrong? Mom says, "yes" and the guys say "no". Oh heavens, help this poor girl . . .

At the end of junior year, Joycie meets Gerry, a lifeguard at her hometown pool. Gerry seems really sweet so when he asks her out she goes. One date leads to another and soon they have become an item. They see each other for the entire summer and Gerry still has not made the big move. Joyce is a little confused but extremely happy. School starts again and Gerry begins to spend weekends at Joyce's dorm. Joycie is falling in love. As it is inevitable, one night while they are both relaxed, it happens again. This time, Joyce hesitates before stopping, but stops anyway. Gerry is not hostile but he is upset. What is her problem?

When Joycie finally examines her attitude she makes a discovery that many other girls are making. She wants to be a virgin when she gets married. Her attitude is not because of Mom, not because of fear, and not because of her reputation. She truly believes in virginity and, she is not alone. Virginity is not popular but it is widespread. Many guys just refuse to believe it.

Every girl who has had a date has had these problems. We wish that guys could try to understand and respect our wishes. There are some of us who want to give ourselves to our husbands only. That man will be the one who has patience and love that will last a lifetime. So, the rest of you guys – give us a break, huh? If the lady says no, she has a good reason.

Mr. President:

behalf of the college all team, The Rams, and college newspaper, The post, I am both pleased roud to ask you to accept game ball from the ingham State/Curry ge football game played ast Saturday at Bowditch in Framingham. The game ended in the fifth victory of our season by a score of 16-8. Framingham State is currently fighting for the number one spot in the New England Football Conference with Nichols College.

We had hoped to give you a new football but with the current budget situation in Massachusetts we are unable to do so, therefore, you have an authentic used game ball. The students who are with you today are all members of the Gatepost Staff and are doing a tremendous job with this year's school newspaper, reporting any number of community and school stories.

In accepting this game ball, it is the hope of the students on the football team that you will also accept the position of honorary member of the team. With the addition of an authentic All American to our team, it is sure to be a big plus in the Ram's quest for their sixth victory of the year and their first league championship. This is also significant since two years an honorary member of the Framingham State Football Team with the acceptance of a game football jersey. Therefore, Framingham State football team not only has a chance at the league title, but also, to have the two top presidential candidates as part of their football program.

In all seriousness, Framingham State's athletic program is funded totally by student monies while the individual student athletes receive no compensation for

TO THE POLLS

1975-1976

While the rest of the country and perhaps the world went crazy celebrating the U.S. Bicentennial, Framingham State concerned itself more with our own campus. Unfortunately, our concern was not overwhelming. This was in evidence when a funeral was held for Joe Apathy and no one came.

A spark of enthusiasm did appear at the budget and tuition rally. The auditorium was filled with students and faculty, organized to fight the budget cuts and the tuition increase. But, as was the case in past years, any campus togetherness and spunk disappeared soon thereafter. Framingham State remains a pit of apathy and noninvolvement.

Many thoughts come to mind as to why this condition continues to persist. Some will say it is the organization of the campus into many closely knit cliques. This situation is promoted somewhat by the dorm students who make little or no effort to mix. Athletic teams tend to stay together as do special interest clubs. Now, this in itself is not bad, but Framingham students in these cliques do not stray outside them. As a result, interest is narrowed and only spectacular news attracts campus wide attention.

Another reason for the cloud that hangs on our campus could be total lack of communication between dorm and commuter students. If examined closely, most clubs and organizations are run by on-campus people. Commuters congregate in the library or in O'Connor Caf., then scurry home to jobs and people not related to school. Meetings and events held at night are sparsely attended by commuters so interaction between factions is rare, if existing at all.

There is also an enormous weekend exodus from Framingham. The nickname, "Suitcase City" is appropriate because the campus resembles a ghost town from Friday to Sunday. Why this happens, well, no one seems to know. The events that are presented do not generate interest so everyone leaves. So what is wrong with the events?

The people who do remain at school seem to have an abnormal dependence on alcohol. This may seem like a rash generalization but Sunday morning always dawns on piles of beer cans. This year the Junior Class sponsored a non-alcoholic event and it was so sparsely attended that workers talked to each other for company. A large amount of daily conversation revolves around how much someone drank. This is another sad commentary on life at F.S.C.

None of these reasons can completely explain the deadness at school. There are probably many other individual reasons for non-involvement. But the situation is not hopeless. The basic ingredient of good people is apparent. So, get together and be together. Meet and know each other. College is a time to experience and share. Do not waste the opportunity and then spend the future wallowing in regret.

The Framingham State Rams had a very successful season, nearly tying with Boston State and Nichols College for the New England Football Conference championship. They finished one-half game out of first place and can look back with pride upon such a triumphant campaign. The team was manned with a number of outstanding players who showed their potential under the leadership of Coach Dennis Golden. This year marks the completion of four years since the team's beginning in 1972.

The Ramettes field hockey team endured a disappointing season. Although their record was a losing one, it did not reflect the true calibre of play. The team often played a high powered game, this was reflected by the close scores. With many returning players and the same amount of enthusiasm, the team will undoubtedly be a threat next season.

Thanks to Coach Lynn Vassar, the girls tennis team had a victorious season. Even though they were defeated in their first match by Salem State, their positive and determined attitude resulted in a winning record and an invitation to the U. Mass. Tournament. Leaving around 6:00 A.M. on what seemed like the coldest day of the year, the team headed for U. Mass. The only word that could classify the nervousness and excitement the tournament carried with it an "experience" which will never be forgotten.

The Framingham State Rams Hockey team made school history by being the college's first athletic team to be chosen for the ECAC tournament. Although they were eliminated in the first round of competition, three players placed within the top five for the scoring in Division III. The Rams won five of their last six games, including wins over Worcester State and Mass. Maritime, both of whom were undefeated at the time.

Although the women's volleyball team had an unsatisfactory season in terms of wins and losses, their spirit and determination helped to create a feeling of unity. This solidarity was evident in their fine execution of plays on the court.

Team: Connie Anderson, Judy Anderson, Donna Bourassa, Co-Capt. Kathy Brock, Maggie Brodeur, Anne Callahan, Rose Corriden, Ann Foresman, Gloria Frazier, Marsha Luth, Diane Miodyscewski, Co-Capt. Wanda Moody, Debbie Pierce, Chris Pomponi, Karen Soucie, Martha Tully, Lourdes Valdivia

The Framingham State baseball squad showed their potential and brought forth a distinguished final record. The team jumped to a winning start for the first half of the season, but ran into the iron of the league in the last half of the campaign. Expert performances by the players led to such a successful season.

The 1976 softball team ended its season with an impressive record, but that shows nothing of the morale of the team, even at its lowest points. Early in the spring, two starting players were lost for the season, but the team stuck together and filled in the gaps. Against the state schools, the team was overpowered, but never in any of their games did they give up. Spirit on the team was never lacking and a strong bond developed.

DEDICATION

Freshman Orientation introduced you to us as Dean of Men. We then elected you to be our Class Advisor. During four years you have stayed with us; to help us, guide us, and most of all, to be our friend. We've changed since the beginning. The campus has changed and now you also have experienced a change of office. In spite of these changes, you have still given time to advise the Class of 76. Your help, experience, and leadership have touched us and made us that much richer in knowing you. For all that you have been in the past, and for what you are now, the Class of 76 would like to say thanks.

DEFENSIVE DEGENERATE

by Jim Finn

Now that intramural hockey is again upon us we are reminded of past deeds and players. We are reminded of some famous and infamous people. Of the spontaneous and spectacular and of the sinister and cynical. One of the more infamous individuals is the destructive defensemen for Kelly's Heroes, Eddie the Hack" Lynch.

Eddie has a habit of letting other opponents know how he feels about them and then lets the boards do the talking. Words around the league has it that once you have met Eddie you automatically meet the boards. Eddie has been practicing 9 (making faces in the mirror and Shadow boxing) so it was a real treat when he consented to this interview.

Eddie's story begins in the back streets of Worcester where Eddie was raised. Eddie was born with his sneakers on and has been running all his life. He perfected his rough

In high school Eddie was introduced to street hockey (he knew everything about the street) and loved it, playing all day with his buddies. At night he practiced his slap shot by shooting meatballs against the basement wall.

Eddie was discovered in 1973 by T. J. Kelly when Eddie threw him a hip check during a Natick-Worcester street brawl. T.J. signed him to a multi-year contract (after T.J. returned from the hospital). Eddie's talent was put to use as he made opponents more aware of their safety. Eddie will be back in action again this year, but new rules in the league cause us to wonder about the future of the league's highest penalized player and number one bad boy. Eddie didn't seem too distraught as he explained his feelings. "I feel that this new rule only limits the amount of punishment one can dish out", Ed went on to say, "This means I have to be more subtle about it".

Gentlemen of the league watch out the Hack is back."

STREAKING POLL

The Gatepost is conducting a poll on campus of what FSC person you would most like to see streak. Please submit your votes in care of the Gatepost by April 1, 1974. Results will be posted in the April 3 issue. Take your time and vote for that person you feel is most qualified.

To date, returns are low, but Jim Savas is leading the field. Don't be a member of the silent majority – VOTE SOON!

Athletic Fee may increase

by Kathleen O'Rielly

An all college assembly will be held today, Monday 23 at 1:30 in Dwight Auditorium to survey student opinion about increasing the athletic fees from $25 to $35 a year for undergraduate students.

The eight other state colleges have athletic fees ranging from $25 at Worcester, Salem, and Lowell, to $60 at Mass. Maritime Academy.

The Athletic Council anticipates having to discontinue some sports unless the budget grows. If inflation continues at its present rate a deficit of more than $10,000 will be incurred.

The present budget allows students free: admission at all home games, swimming and horseback riding lessons at beginner levels. Student bowling was free to students past years.

All students should be present at the All College Assembly to voice their opinion about athletics on this campus.

Junior Year 1974-1975

Class officers Mark, Rosie, Annie, and Bobbie – decline of the beer party – The "Edgerock" becomes the place to go – Do you remember the "Last Chance Saloon" and John Morgan? – Withdrawing from Stunt Night – Political question: The Athletic Fee – and at the end: THE BIG ELECTION, Steve vs. Mark – The result: A new president.

Last Chance Saloon!

ARE YOU BORED BEYOND BELIEF?

Well, here's an easy remedy for relief:

Come to the Last Chance Saloon. That's right! Last Chance because it's the last chance for both commuters and residents to get together before the Christmas break. Listen to real Saloon music. Beer and wine at the old-time price of 25 cents with pretzels provided free. FREE admission!! the Saloon will open at 9:00 p.m. on Thursday, December 5, and close its doors at 12. Where? Where? O'Connor Cafe. Sponsored by Student Union. You better be there

PLAYERS' BENCH

Winter Weekend is all over and those who went home didn't miss much. It was a flop except Sat. night's Liverpool concert. That was very good. If John Morgan played instead of the weirds who played Friday night, it would not have bombed.

They also should have had something Saturday afternoon plus Liverpool Saturday night, should have had a beer bash Sunday instead of paying all that money for James Montgomery. They could have gotten a Three Stooges film festival. This would have cost the school a lot less money.

Who is to blame for the sad shape that this campus is in. I think it is the people in charge like the president of student union, plus the class officers. These people ask to be voted into office so I think it is their obligation to get things done.

I, as a student, will do my part in supporting any programs or events these people put forth. The people who go home every weekend are not helping because that's not helping our campus. I do blame the student union president and class leaders for the reason why this is a suitcase weekend school, because there is nothing here to stay for. So I have made up my own class and school leaders.

Hats off to....Dick for last weeks' Gatepost quote in his article "The nuts are the balls" way to go Dick. Rumor has it that FSC's top baseball relief pitcher Bob "rabbit" Culgin is holding out for more money. I guess now that he married his honey, he has doubled his expenses. Lastly, each week I'm going to report on an alumni, this week Joe Kellogg.

He works as the head of the co-ed dorm for monkeys at the Stoneham Zoo. Joe said it's not bad of a job except that the residents monkey around a bit. When asked if there are any problems Joe said, "The only thing I get ape over is if my R.A. don't turn in the 4th floor chimps who smoke banana peels.....Later.

... Our first time in caps and gowns. Such a strange feeling. Have we really grown so old? ... Trying to be solemn marching into the auditorium ... Welcome by a new President, Stephen Anzalone ... Dr. Walter Muir Whitehill speaking about the Bicentennial. We agree – too much Bicentennial. Music from the Choir and then the College Hymn. What were we invested into, anyway?

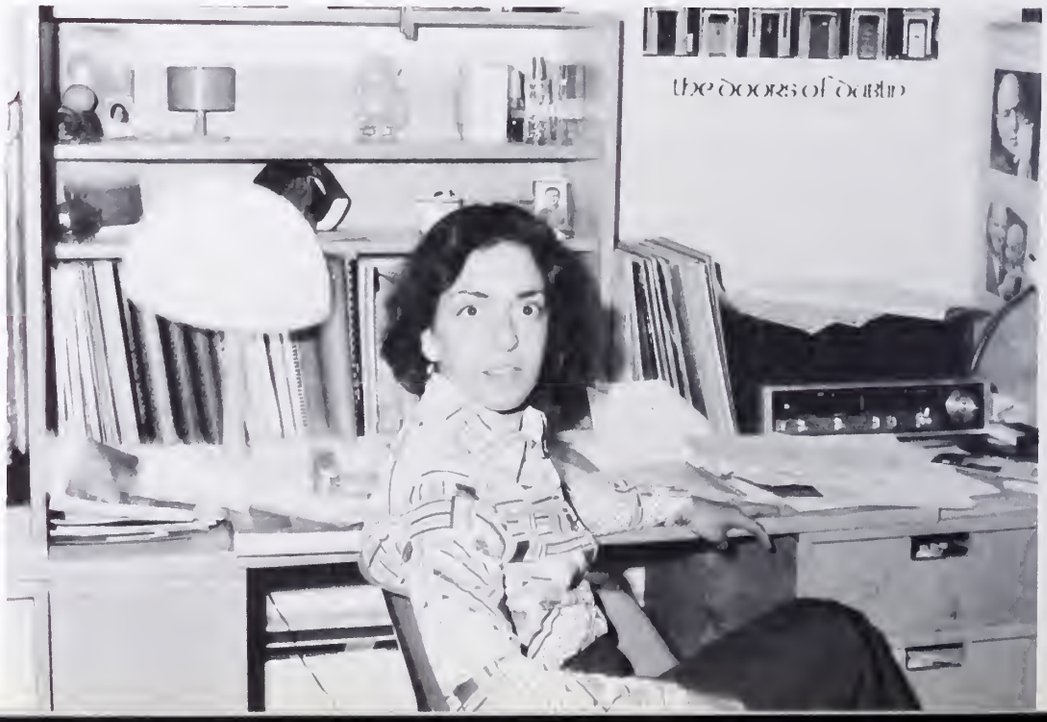
Dial Staff 1975-1976

John Neister, Emergency Assistant

We have tried to make the 1976 Dial more complete than it has been in past years. This book includes the entire year, which is a new idea. We have a more comprehensive sports section . . .

Marianne Larson, Editor

Diane Talanian,
Assistant Editor



Susan Surprise, Cover Design

Rosemary Bransfield, Seniors

Cindy Burns, Seniors

Linda Alemian, Sports

Anne Marie Fitzmaurice, Sports

... Though some sections did not turn out as we had planned, we think our book is stronger than those of the past.

The Dial would like to thank SGA for allowing a fall book to be a reality. We would also like to thank the campus for accepting the idea.

There are many others, notably;

Norm Benrimo ...

Carolyn Graffeo, Sports

Maura Walsh, Photography

Michele Trunfio, Candids

. . . Joe Donovan
David Whipple
Dean Ted Desaulnier
Dana Morris
Margaret Bulens
Jay Bleiler
Susan Bitensky

and Ned Price . . .

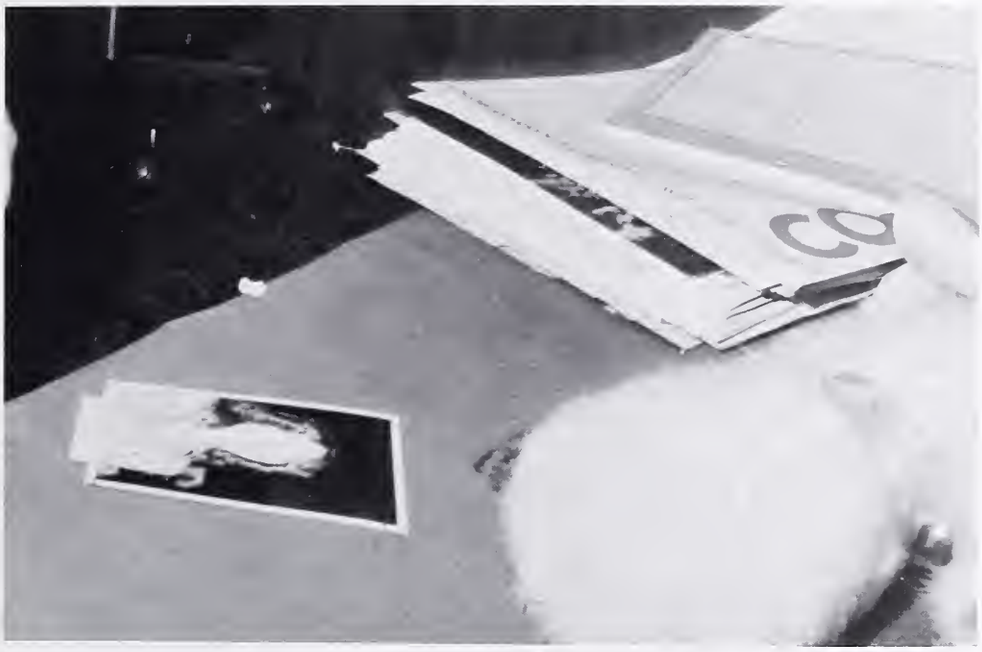
Susan Rigney, Candids

Carol Maclean, Faculty

Joanne Schmidt, Faculty

Lowell Bursch, Photography

Christine Ridder, Special Events and Classes and Clubs



. . . to whom we owe a great deal of gratitude for all the help they have given us.

Lastly, Thanks to Mr. Dan Hnatio. You were new for us this year but your enthusiasm outweighed the unfamiliarity. You infused us with new ideas and shared with us your vast knowledge of Media and Publication. We love you!
